A WORD ABOUT FLOOR COVERINGS

Next season the same thing will cost 7c per yard more. Japanese Cotton Warp Mattings in very pretty patterns, 25c, 30c and 35c per yard. A WONDERFUL CREATURE.

Born of a Snowdrift Crossed With a Little Brown Hare.

Nature has tried many means of saving her own from the snow death. Some, like the woodchuck, she puts to sleep till the snows shall be over. Others she teaches to store up food and to hide. So she deals with the wood mouse. To still others, as the moose, she furnishes stilt. The last means she employs is snowshoes. This, the simplest, most scientific and best, is the equipment of the snowshoe rabbit, the wabasso of Hiawatha, a wonderful creature born of a snowdrift crossed with a little brown hare.

The moose is like a wading bird of the shore that has stilt and can wade well for a space, but that soon reaches the limit beyond which it is no better off than a land bird. But the snowshoe is like the swimmer—it skims over the surface where it will not care if there be one or a thousand feet of the element below it. In this lies its strength.

Wabasso has another name, the varying hare, because it varies in color with the season, and the seasons in all its proper country are of two colors, brown for six months, white for six.

So all summer long, from mid-April to mid-October, the northern hare is a little brown rabbit.

Then comes the snowy cold. The brown coat is quickly shed, a new white coat appears, the snowshoe grows fuller, and the little brown hare has become a white hare, the snowshoe hare of the woods—Everybody's Magazine.

Britain.

Britain was known to the Phoenicians as Barut-Anc, or "the land of tin," as far back as the year 1037 B. C. Some 600 years afterward the island was allotted to by the Romans under the name of Britannia, which subsequently became shortened to Britain.

Fire Extinguishers.

The first successful fire extinguisher was invented and operated by one T. Phillips of London, in the year 1540. This apparatus, while a success at putting out fires, was commercially a failure.
